Irregular Verbs

There are two types of verbs in English. The verbs that change are called "irregular verbs" and those to which we add "ed" to the simple past and past participle forms are called "regular verbs". For example, the verb "go" is irregular because its simple past and past participle forms are "went" and "gone", successively, whereas "watch" is regular because we just add "ed" to the base form and becomes "watched" in both simple past and past participle.

Simply put, the verbs that we find in the list are called irregular verbs and those we don't find are referred to as "regular verbs".

These are some examples of irregular verbs.

These are some examples of regular verbs:

Infinitive	Simple past	Past participle	Infinitive	Simple past	Past participle
1. see	saw	seen	1. start	start ed	start ed
2. do	did	done	2. collect	collect ed	collect ed
3. break	broke	broken	3. visit	visit ed	visit ed

N.B. We change the "y" into "i" if the verb ends in a consonant + "y", for example, study \rightarrow studied and it doesn't change when the verb ends in a vowel + "y", for example play \rightarrow played.
